ABOUT THE AUTHOR

David was born and grew up in the Norfolk village of Heacham, a seaside village, famed for Norfolk Lavender.

He is the youngest of 4 children, born to Welsh parents.

After school, he spent a year as a Student Teacher in King's Lynn, then trained at St. Paul's College in Cheltenham, and taught in a Junior School in Leicester.

After a very strong sense of vocation to become a Methodist Minister, he trained at Queen's College and Birmingham University. During this time, he worked for the Samaritans in Birmingham City Centre.

His first appointment as a Minister was to the Salisbury Circuit. It was here that his children, Richard and Ruth, were born.

After 5 years in Salisbury, he became the Minister of Tilehurst in Reading for 7 years, and then Superintendent Minister of The Dunstable Circuit for 15 years, followed by being Superintendent of the Aylesbury Circuit for 10 years, and then moving to Caversham in Reading in 2014, to work part time in retirement.

He is married to Paula, and, in addition to family life, days out, holidays, and being with friends his enthusiasms include prayer, running, reading, and playing the piano.

As a composer, he has written large scale musicals, "The Fish'Man Jazz" and "Undeafated", several musicals for children, songs and piano pieces.

CDs of "The Salisbury Suite", recorded on Sir Edward Heath's Steinway Grand piano are available from David or from Arundells in Salisbury.
